CARPETS AND MATTING.
Hints New and Old Regarding the Care of Floor Covering at All Seasons.

Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first, and then on the right side, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox-gall or ammonia and water, says the Home Magazine.

If you have a suspicion of moths in your carpets, scrub your floor with hot water and salt before relaying them, and sweep salt over the carpet once or twice during the month. Silver moths are very sensitive to pungent odors, and cayenne pepper sprinkled around should drive them away.

A tablespoonful of ammonia in a gallon of warm water will restore colors in carpets. It will also remove whitewash from them. Vinegar will also remove lime from carpets.

If soot falls on your carpet or rug, cover quickly with dry salt before sweeping and not a stain will be left. Or if ink is spilled upon the carpet cover the spot immediately with salt. When this has absorbed all the ink it will carefully take it off with an old knife or spoon, and apply more salt. Keep doing this until the ink is all taken up.

Sweet milk is also good to absorb ink if poured over the spot immediately.

If grease or oil is spilled on a carpet, flour or fine meal should be sprinkled over it as soon as possible, and let it remain for several hours and it will absorb the grease. Oatmeal has also been used to advantage in the same way.

When sweeping carpets, try sprinkling them with Indian meal, dampened. Be careful not to step on it, and begin in a corner to sweep toward the door. In this way you will get up most of the dirt without raising much dust. Sawdust is excellent for the same purpose, as are also salt, tea leaves or dampened newspaper torn in bits and scattered over the carpet before sweeping.

In winter time nothing is better than to sweep with light snow, even a dingy old carpet will look almost like new, but do not try this in a warm room; it will not be a success. No matter how beautiful the carpet, it has not the appealing loveliness of the matting in summer.

In cleaning matting wipe it off first with a cloth dampened in warm salt water. Indian meal is also good for cleaning matting. Sprinkle the meal over the floor and then thoroughly sweep.

To remove grease spots use benzine and French chalk. Cover the spot thickly with chalk, and moisten by sprinkling, not pouring, the benzine on it. When the benzine has evaporated, brush off the chalk and the spot will have disappeared.
